(1) General Secretary Xi Jinping's Systematic Explanation on “Establishing a Comprehensive and Strict Party Governance System”

The fourth issue of Qiushi magazine in 2025 will publish Xi Jinping's important article “Improving the Comprehensive and Strict Governance System of the Party”. The article makes arrangements for improving the comprehensive and strict governance system of the Party in five aspects.

Firstly, establish a sound organizational system that is interconnected and effectively executed. The leadership and management of the Party must be implemented in all aspects of Party governance, and the Party's central, local, and grassroots organizations must be strong, effective, and operate smoothly. Only when the Party's organizational system is tightened, and the political and organizational functions of Party organizations at all levels are fully utilized, can the comprehensive strict governance of the Party continue to advance in depth. The key to strengthening the Party's organizational system is to uphold the authority of the Party Central Committee and centralized and unified leadership, fundamentally achieving the “two safeguards”.

Secondly, establish a sound education system that solidifies the foundation and nurtures the soul. Only by mastering scientific theories, consolidating ideological foundations, and comprehensively governing the Party strictly can we have solid support. We must firmly grasp the foundation of ideological construction, persistently promote the Party's innovative theoretical armament, persistently strengthen Party spirit education, and guide Party members and cadres to transform the strategic policy of comprehensively governing the Party strictly into conscious actions.

Thirdly, establish a precise and targeted regulatory system that addresses both the symptoms and root causes. To promote comprehensive and strict governance of the Party, the key is to truly manage and strictly implement precise governance. We must closely monitor and analyze the new trends in the Party's situation and conduct, adhere to the principle of addressing problems and tackling the root causes, and improve the precision and effectiveness of Party governance by treating both the symptoms and the root causes.

Fourth, establish a scientifically sound and effective institutional system. The comprehensive, strict governance of the Party is politically and principled, and there must be a scientific and comprehensive system to regulate it. Institutional construction should be in line with the needs of governing the Party and supporting various Party constructions, and comprehensively weave the cage of the system. At the same time, it is also necessary to prevent the system from being too cumbersome and falling into “institutional traps”. We need to strengthen system integration and make various systems an organic whole.

Fifth, establish a clear responsibility system with well-defined subjects and requirements. Comprehensively and strictly governing the Party is the common responsibility of the entire Party. It is necessary to establish a sound responsibility system in a hierarchical and classified manner, in order to clarify responsibilities, consolidate responsibilities, and promote Party organizations at all levels and the vast number of Party members and cadres to understand, assume, and fulfill their responsibilities.

(2) General Secretary Xi Jinping's Important Discourse on Strengthening the Construction of the Party's Work Style

Since the 18th National Congress of the Communist Party of China, in the practice of promoting comprehensive strict governance of the Party, General Secretary Xi Jinping has delivered a series of important speeches and issued a series of important instructions on strengthening the Party's work style construction, forming an important discourse of General Secretary Xi Jinping on strengthening the Party's work style construction. These important statements are important components of General Secretary Xi Jinping's important ideas on Party building and self revolution, providing sharp ideological weapons for strengthening the Party's work style construction in the new era.

General Secretary Xi Jinping's important discourse on strengthening the Party's work style construction profoundly expounds the significant significance, essential attributes, and core essence of strengthening the Party's work style construction in the new era, and provides scientific answers to a series of major theoretical and practical issues related to the Party's work style construction in the new era. “The Party's work style is closely related to people's hearts and minds, and determines the success or failure of the Party and the country's cause.” “The essence of work style issues is a matter of Party spirit”, and “the core of work style issues is a matter of the relationship between the Party and the people”.

This deeply elaborates on the significance, essential attributes, and core essence of strengthening the Party's work style construction in the new era, and systematically answers a series of major theoretical and practical questions related to why to strengthen the Party's work style construction in the new era. “The Central Eight-point Regulation is the entry point and mobilization order for improving work style, and it is a long-term effective iron rule and hard rod”. “Continue to deepen the rectification of the 'four winds’”. It also states that “leaders at all levels should take the lead in transforming work style, lead by example, and lead by example”. It elaborates on the major measures, key tasks, and “key few” for strengthening the Party's work style construction in the new era, and puts forward clear requirements for “what to focus on” in strengthening the Party's work style construction in the new era. “Adhering to the integration of positive conduct, discipline, and anti-corruption”, “comprehensively purifying the Party's work style”, and “using excellent Party conduct to drive people and society towards goodness”, and “promoting the normalization and long-term development of work style construction”, have deepened the understanding of the Party's work style construction path goals and institutional guarantees, and scientifically pointed out the direction of “how to strengthen” the Party's work style construction in the new era.
